1	Marketing the library on a budget. Knowledge sharing. What administrators want.	Nov 3, 2009 8:44 PM
2	CE topics for academic librarians.	Nov 3, 2009 9:18 PM
3	Easy marketing ideas for library. Skills updates: cataloging, weeding, etc. Time management	Nov 4, 2009 3:40 PM
4	It is always a balance between broad concepts for library leadership/services and more detailed instructional information on application of software. You might survey what software techniques the members need help with. I could use a better understanding of graphics & images software, or access database use or digital licensing and activation issues. The problem is some would be attracted to those classes and some would be uninterested.	Nov 4, 2009 3:54 PM
5	corporate copyright compliance	Nov 4, 2009 3:56 PM
6	Knowledge Management	Nov 4, 2009 4:17 PM
7	Weeding collections, collection development in general in the health sciences, conducting usability studies for either online or physical spaces, accessibility for persons with disabilities for either online or physical spaces, Transcultural nursing, tips and tricks for finding nursing theory and nurse theorists information, customizing PubMed/MyNCBI	Nov 4, 2009 5:41 PM

9	Web. 2.0 stuff. Facebook; Tweeter; etc for hospital setting	Nov 4, 2009 6:05 PM
10	CE programs that appeal to academic librarians and hospital librarians.	Nov 4, 2009 6:14 PM

4	Keynote and class offerings.	Nov 4, 2009 3:42 PM
5	Because of the weather it was nice to have everything so nicely contained in one facility. It was a nice quiet setting with the real feeling of comradeship. The down side of that is that it was probably not even a breakeven meeting and it obviously didn't attract the bulk of the members.	Nov 4, 2009 3:54 PM
6	Keynote address (was not able to attend CE's this year)	Nov 4, 2009 3:56 PM
7	Networking with the Central Illinois librarians	Nov 4, 2009 4:17 PM

1	Different options for CE.	Nov 3, 2009 8:44 PM
2	Online CE	Nov 3, 2009 9:18 PM
3	New ideas for continuing education that don't necessarily depend on the newest fad in social networking.	Nov 4, 2009 3:40 PM
4	Try to avoid conflict times.	Nov 4, 2009 3:42 PM
5	The board has discussed the possibility of virtual meetings. If some combination of physical attendance and virtual attendance could be accomplished I think you would meet the needs of more of the membership. I think if we were to go entirely to virtual meetings, the group would eventually lose its feel of family.	Nov 4, 2009 3:54 PM
6	location closer to interesting sites at least one ce NOT GMR offering	Nov 4, 2009 4:17 PM
7	More attendees	Nov 4, 2009 5:41 PM
8	There is valuable information in the CE's from the GMR, but I've attended most of them at this point. Unless there are new or drastically revised GMR classes, I'd like to have a non-GMR option for CE.	Nov 4, 2009 5:41 PM
9	shorter breaks between sessions, esp. on Friday (so we can get home earlier); more shorter CE classes (instead of one 4-hour CE class, perhaps two 2-hour classes)	Nov 4, 2009 5:45 PM
10	Offer online CEs	Nov 4, 2009 6:14 PM
11	I think you need more programming geared to health sciences librarians on the second day.	Nov 4, 2009 7:24 PM
12	The CE offerings were the same or similar as past conferences, I believe that is why the attendance was so low.	Nov 4, 2009 9:37 PM
13	Better marketing; perhaps more attractive sessions. Attendance should have been better. Site and arrangements were excellent.	Nov 5, 2009 3:08 AM
14	Try to get a higher attendance. More posters. That would happen with higher attendance.	Nov 5, 2009 3:25 PM
15	different CEs	Nov 9, 2009 5:49 PM

1	Looking forward to the next conference	Nov 3, 2009 9:18 PM
2	I think one of the outstanding features of HSLI has always been affordable CE as well as meetings within the state.	Nov 4, 2009 3:54 PM
3	We need some "icebreaking" events /techniques to get librarians from downstate to socialize with librarians from upstate. It's a small group we should mingle more outside our own institutions or areas. I know it could be just me I have BO but not everyone does!	Nov 4, 2009 4:17 PM
4	Great conference!	Nov 4, 2009 5:45 PM
5	Great job to Linda and the Conference Team!!!	Nov 4, 2009 6:05 PM
